Theresian Military Academy HEADQUARTERS PAPERS

An essential task of applied military science research is the publication of the results. If you want to share your findings, then you've come to the right place! Any question is equally welcome as long as it is of interest to military science and fits into one of the subject areas. We are particularly interested in the effects of urbanisation, digitalisation and artificial intelligence on military leadership and the future role of mission command.

Then sharpen your pencil, hit the keys and send us your contribution!
